Description

oh, i wish i had some peace.

you know this governor we have is a neurotic insecure person, and plots his evil campaigns as carefully as madonna plots her outfits for a pr splash, or, like Lady gaga, who he is using right now to push his "things italian" aesthetic over all of us loser new jerseyites who can't afford to fly to houston for the big super bowl game like he and all his friends do.

so they misuse government phone towers or satellites here in state to put us covertly on a frequency with Lady Gaga muzak.

whatever my feelings are about the singer Lady Gaga (and i happen to not like her routine at all) it would be like me putting him on a bandwidth with david allan coe after he's been raped/sodomized in a truckstop bathroom with that music playing in the background. i'm not going to have to tell you how obnoxious it is therefore.

if he doesn't stop misusing state government towers this way, can we impeach him?

or would his goombah squad pick on somebody else or use another means, like, say, our tomatoes or our biscotti.

i'm part italian. i also happen to be sober from alcohol for many years by the grace of God, and see this man and this whole 'super bowl vehicle' as a pathetic wound to us all. and yes, very sick. and cowardly in his ignorant 'how else do you expect us to make money' retort.

when pasttimes become agendas to force more booze and pot and sexting and government agenda and so on, it's time we all move to governor christy's house.

oh, not sure if you can field this last one, but THEY (i think it's him, but may be the more locally based prostitution racket) have 'watched' me, montored what i watch on TV and have ruined the channel i kept on while doing my work in my studio. they took the Hallmark TV channel which played these really sweet innocent xmas shows year round (ok, i'm corny sometimes) and switched it all out to suddenly be filled with the (whore) starlets that the loser family i come from pimp. and they turned the programming around, and made it into 'mystery/murder' channel and also put jewish funeral shows on as well. lastly they use a transmogrify composite program to morph the face of a good ole local whore named 'julie' into the faces on the shows, so, like the actress will look like julie the whore, and so will the next actress, and so will the next, always with a little, cadence for the rights to fuck your boyfriend....you know how those whores work to get a hit off of a man, then shame him to follow up, or else? how they are so sohpicated they make a kurt vonnegut novel seem simple? well, they now have figured out a way to use TV shows as part real time, prob attached up to a computer "level" monitor program of a person's neurotransmitter levels, and bingo, they can fire off an actress/whore to look like she is flirting with the viewer or, whoever is also on the viewers mind and crosscheck it with a person's bio neurotransmitters and . this bioethics notwithstanding, i don't want THEM montioring my TV show watching and spot channeling me with the computeraided/psychological-link programming and then, you know, ordering their little minionslavewhore to go to the area where the

"john' is, and make him follow through. or, at the very least, have a robo computer aided call go out to him by her or a voicechanger computer aided sound alike via the cable station computer links, to his cellphone, with real her coming in if the price is right.

this blows. and it is also illegal because it is a misuseage of their licensing agreemants. plus you know prostitution is illegal, no matter how big and blustery and coerced it is. and this coercion goes along with the rape culture like i was telling you about with Lady Gaga being used by the fatso italiano governor to push his aesthetic. sorry governor. pick another loser.

This is not the first time that CNN has allowed profanity to go unchecked. Last week during the women's march celebrities like Madonna were allowed to curse freely without bleeping their profanities over and over. Please do not let this go unchecked as I fear that they are getting away with more and more every day.

On January 21, 2017, at approx. 3PM, CNN broadcasted an interview with the singer, Madonna, that included vile and filthy language that included repeated cursing about the government of the US. My wife and I were horrified that such scurrilous and filthy language is now being allowed by the FCC and letting this set a pattern that must be stopped NOW and an example must be set. CNN should be disallowed their charter or license from the federal governemnt immediately. Madonna's right of free speech doesn't overrun my right to be safe in my home listening to alleged newsworthy stories and not also exposing my children and grandchildren to this horrific display of deranged and abusive language. This was terribly offensive! CNN had the opportunity to cut away the first time she said it, but they didn't. Then after allowing it to happen more than once, one of their anchors attempted to politicize vocabulary in an attempt to justify the profanity.

Greetings and to whom it may concern. I was watching the day time coverage of the National Women's March today on CNN and they were covering a speech by Madonna. Madonna used the F-Word several times and CNN failed to suppress the vulgar language. As an end result, my 4 and 6 year old daughter were sitting right by the TV watching and now are asking what that word is.

CNN is claiming that "They did not know she would use that" but I claim its a lie as everyone knows there is a 30 to 60 second delay built into the live coverage so that broadcasters like CNN can quickly suppress the audio (With a beep or silence) so that their audiences that include children are not subjected to vulgar language. I am sure that I am not the only viewer that will be complaining.

I also submitted my complaint to CNN just for the record.

During the Women march in D.C. CNN showed live comments from celebrity women, during Madonna comments she repeatedly dropped the F&*K bomb and it was never bleeped out. First of all for what this march was representing, this is a very poor example for young girls as well as boys to hear. CNN seems to do whatever they want without any repercussion. This could have been prevented and was not, they should be held accountable. I am offended by this language myself and feel that CNN needs to set a better standard of reporting than this.

CNN broadcasted a speech by Madonna, which repeatedly used profanity in front of a young relative. The word in question was "fuck" and even though she used the word at the beginning of the broadcast, they allowed the speech to be shown for several more minutes in which she used the same profane word at least 2 additional times.

This is unacceptable, and not the first time it has happened in the past few months. In an interview, a guest on CNN used the word "n" which is absolutely despicable. Something must be done regarding their "live" look-ins. I thought Janet Jackson took care of that for us, but I guess not.

What happened to the 5,7, or 10 second delay, networks are suppose to use and monitor during live events to prevent such vulgar profanity from airing? I find this highly frustrating and insulting. In the digital age, when one is forced to pay for free programming and the end result is that you also receive other cable channels, then they too should fall under the same indecency guidelines as broadcast television.

I was listening to CNN on SiriusXM in the afternoon on 1/21/17 and CNN was broadcasting the Women's March in DC. Madonna was on the stage speaking and CNN was allowing her speech to run with no interruptions. She said the "f word" clearly and while surprised, I know that can happen on live tv. Instead of cutting in and apologizing, CNN allowed Madonna to speak uninterrupted for another 60-90 seconds where she clearly stated the "f word" two more times. Finally, CNN interrupted and the commentators starting talking. I was appalled that CNN let that type of language be broadcast without a 6 second delay or at least an interruption immediately following the first instance of such language. My children are often in the car with me and I can now no longer listen to CNN when they are in the car. That language and also how carelessly they handled the situation in the middle of the afternoon was offensive to me.
