Table POL18: As you may know, all citizens and companies have the constitutional right to lobby the government to try to affect public policy decisions. This right is protected by the First Amendment protection to petition the government.Senator Elizabeth Warren (D-Mass.) recently proposed a new tax on lobbying that is meant to discourage major corporations from spending more than $500,000 per year to lobby the government in favor of their causes. Critics say the plan could be violating the First Amendment right to petition the government. Supporters believe it is an important step towards reigning in lobbying efforts by major corporations. Based on what you know about the proposed tax, do you support or oppose it?
